Amato takes us on a journey of walking from the first human migrations to marching Roman legions and ancient Greeks who considered man a featherless biped from trekking medieval pilgrims to strolling courtiers from urban pavement pounders to ambling window shoppers to suburban mall walkers concentrating on walking in Europe and North America and with particular focus on how walking differed according to social class Amato distinguishes how where when who what and under which conditions people moved on foot he identifies crucial transformations in the history of walking including the adoption of the horse by the mounted warrior the rise of public display among European nobility and the building of roads and transportation systems which led to the inevitable ascent of the wheel over the foot
